Richeson's Body Taken to Virginia.
Boston, May 22.—The body of Clarence V. T. Richeson, who was electrocuted early Tuesday morning for the murder of Avis Linnell, was sent Wednesday night to Amherst, Va., his former home, for burial.

Brief funeral services took place in the Warren Avenue Baptist church Wednesday. Only Richeson's brother and sister and his counsel and a few other persons were present as mourners. The services were conducted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Herbert C. Johnson, who acted as spiritual adviser for Richeson. Douglas Richeson, a brother, and Miss L. J. Richeson, a sister, are accompanying the body to Amherst.

HARMON AND ROOSEVELT

Late Returns Give Ohio to Harmon.
Roosevelt's Plurality 25,000.

Columbus, Ohio, May 22.—According to returns in hand tonight from approximately 4,500 of the 5,192 precincts in the state, Col. Theodore Roosevelt's delegates to the National Republican convention carried yesterday's Ohio primaries by a plurality of about 25,000 votes. It now seems scarcely possible that final results from the primary poll will change the number of district delegates for either side by more than one or two. The best figures available tonight show that Roosevelt has thirty-two of the forty-two district delegates selected yesterday and that President Taft has ten.

Democratic Situation.

Later returns from the democratic presidential preference primary give Woodrow Wilson a fighting chance for one or two more delegates, but his exact standing will not be known until belated rural returns are in. Gov. Harmon practically is assured a complete delegation of forty-eight delegates to the Baltimore convention. His lead now gives him control of the state democratic convention, which will select six delegates-at-large. Also it is said that the convention will provide for the unit rule, which will force the Wilson delegates selected by districts yesterday to vote for the Ohio executive.

The delegates-at-large situation in the republican party will not be known or settled until June 3, when the state republican convention meets here. Taft leaders claim they will control the state convention and designate the delegates-at-large. But Roosevelt managers declared late returns show the number of Taft delegates to the state convention to be dwindling instead of increasing, as was announced early today. There is no question but that the Taft-Roosevelt fight will be carried to the floor of the state convention. In only twenty-three of the eighty-eight counties in the state were delegates to the state convention chosen. In the remaining counties the delegates will be named by county conventions.

SUFFRAGETTES DRAW LONG PRISON SENTENCES

London, May 22.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, and Mr. and Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, joint editors of Votes for Women, were found guilty at the Old Bailey sessions and each was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, on the charge of conspiracy and inciting to do malicious damage to property.

The jury in handing down its verdict of guilty accompanied it with a recommendation that leniency be shown the prisoners. Justice Colridge, in delivering the judgment, took this into consideration.

The two women in the dock were pathetic figures when the verdict of guilty was brought in. Mrs. Pankhurst clung to the edge of the prisoners' enclosure, trembling visibly and pleaded to be treated as a first-class misdemeanant. Mrs. Pethick Lawrence, raising both hands in the class misdemeanor. Mrs. Pethick attitude of prayer, swayed as she uttered the phrase:

"May God defend us, as our cause is just."

The prisoners were all sentenced to be confined in the second division which does not involve hard labor.

Miss Craig Entertains Sophomores.

The Sophomore class was entertained by the charming little hostess Miss Beatrice Craig. The class assembled they were conducted to the Majestic theatre where a special program was given. The class then went to Wetherington's palm garden where special preparations were made to entertain the class. The class heartily enjoyed themselves and wish to thank those who contributed to the event. With this party-class the social meetings for the year of the jolliest and best class of East Central.

Members present were Misses Giles, Faust, Russell, Steed, Craig; Messrs. Fulks, Jones, Mathews, Sweet, Brents, Invited guests, Miss Betsey Faust, Vera Giles, Mr. Virgil Cottingham, John Craig, chaperones, Mrs. Craig and Miss Zayda Campbell.

SENIOR CLASS ENTERTAINS

Faculty and Other Guests Enjoy
Hospitality of Senior Class of Normal.

Wednesday evening the senior class of the normal entertained the faculty and a number of invited guests, and took the opportunity to even up some old scores by organizing classes in which most of the faculty were assigned to the primary grade when they showed their lack of study in not being able to answer some pointed questions when they attempted to pass the first class.

The evening began with the enrollment of the guests, in which each was supposed to give an account of himself.

After the classes were enrolled and each had showed his knowledge or ignorance of the subjects under discussion, "progressive nonsense" was the order of the hour, after which scraps of cards were passed around and the holders ordered to find their partners by matching the scraps. When this was done it was found that the complete cards bore the names of familiar songs, and each couple was supposed to give an exhibition of their vocal ability by singing a verse or two from the song they held. Prof. Fentem preferred to sing the houn' dawg song in place of the one he held, and was permitted to do so, ably assisted by Miss Knight. Prof. Briles and Miss Clarke came across handsomely with the "Good Old Summer time," when called on, but a few were too timid and too modest to show what they could do if they really tried.

The last feature was marked "recess" on the program, and it was a recess to be remembered, for the most delicious ice cream, strawberries and cake imaginable were passed around. Next came "commencement" which in this instance meant time to commence going home, and it was with genuine regret that the pleased guests did so.

The senior class is composed of Ray H. Palmer, president; Miss Nanine H. Henderson, secretary; Mrs. Effie Bray, Wm. A. Buttram, Miss Muriel H. Wright, Miss Kate N. McKeown and A. C. Bray. The class certainly did itself proud as an entertainment committee. The reception room was decorated with a combination of the school colors and those of the class, lavender and white. The general effect was improved by numerous pot plants from the various rooms of the Normal, where they were raised this year.

Taft carried New York and Teddy got Ohio, each man thus losing his home state to his opponent. Perhaps their neighbors knew more about them than the voters of the other state.

Press dispatches state that a bank of Okmulgee had to take over one of the papers in that city. The owners of that paper must have been geniuses to be able to sting a bank. Furthermore, if the bank tries to operate the paper any length of time, it is probable that its surplus will be somewhat reduced in size and that right speedily.

By the time this paper reaches its readers the editor will be on his way to Muskogee to take in the meeting of the State Press Association. This will probably be the nearest approach to a vacation he will get this year, and he will therefore make the most of it. During his absence the readers of the News will have a refreshing change, too. With Grigsby, Yeager and Hugh Biles running things, the paper will be considerably improved.

The representatives of Guthrie, who are passing the initiated petitions for another capital election, argue that signing them will have the effect of spurring Oklahoma City to action in the matter of erecting a capitol building. Perhaps so, but the chances are that if it accomplishes anything at all, it will be to delay action on the part of Oklahoma City rather than otherwise. Those people would be perfectly justified in refusing to take further steps while there was a chance of losing out altogether.

P. A. NORRIS, Pres.

The editor of the Roff Eagle winds up a tirade against the editor of the News by attempting to display his knowledge of Latin, and as usual, only succeeds in exposing his own ignorance. He closes his frenzied howl with "Vox Percy vox Deos." Doesn't take a profound Latin scholar to see two or three characteristic busts in that. He reminds one of a story told of a lieutenant governor of a western state some years ago when Chief Justice Coleridge of England was being entertained at a banquet in the capital of said state. The menu cards were exceptionally fine, and on the front was a Latin motto. The chief justice was admiring his card and commented on the appropriateness of the motto. "Yes," responded the lieutenant governor, who sat near him, "those words is Latin." The Roff man probably heard that the words he used were Latin, whether he knew any more about them or not.

Tomorrow evening the third commencement exercises of the East Central Normal will take place and a class of seven be awarded diplomas and sent out from the institution to make their way in the world. The normal has made a most creditable showing during its three years of existence, and is abundantly justifying the wisdom of the legislators who established the school at Ada. Its work has always been thorough, the faculty preferring ultimate results to surface showing, and hereafter each succeeding class will be larger than the one going before. Oklahoma needs trained teachers and the great majority of those who attend the school will take their places in the ranks of the teachers of the state. With the education and training obtained here, the young people will go out into the world with well trained minds and equipped for excellent service.

HELPING THE TRUSTS.

Systems That Are Opposed to the Welfare of the Masses.

Nearly a century ago, Disraeli, the elder, in his essay on gaming and gambling, wrote: "The savage and the civilized, the illiterate and the learned, are alike captivated by the hope of accumulating wealth without the labors of industry." In this saying the great statesman and writer sound the keynote of much of the woes met with in life. It is the desire to secure wealth without labor, to gain something for nothing, that causes many to go to their graves "unwept, unhonored and unsung."

The man who gleefully sings "Make a few dollars earn you a living, will be sure to find many people ready to believe him. They will take a "chance" anyway, and the gullible are so numerous that the promoter really succeeds in "accumulating wealth without the labors of industry," but the others—his victims—generally fail.

During the past few years one large concern that has for long been draining the rural districts of surplus wealth, has built a city of its own, and has erected buildings for the accommodation of 7,000 people.

This concern does not draw a cent of trade from the people of the city wherein it is located. All its wealth and the means by which it built up its "own city" has been contributed by people scattered throughout the country.

How few there are who think that when they send money to this great concern for supplies that might as well be bought in their home town, that they are helping to deal a death blow to the place they call home! Yet such is the fact. Every dollar sent to the large city, assists in the building up of great trusts, and greater combinations, that seek to control the manufacturing, the mercantile business, and as well the prices of labor and all the products of the workshop and the farm. It means business oligarchy to which the common people should not submit.—The Southwestern Home Trade League, Wichita, Kan.

The Oklahoma City Times, one of the leading republican papers of the state, has come to the conclusion that Taft and Roosevelt have so torn the party that a dark horse is its only salvation, and suggests that Justice Hughes is the Moses who can lead the republicans out of the wilderness and back to the path of victory and the pie counter. Evidently the Times does not take its orders from Teddy nor share his expressed opinion that he is the only compromise candidate acceptable to himself.

REVIVAL CONTINUES WITH SUCCESS

The evangelist prefaced his sermon last night by saying that if the people of this little city had a wide open town after the election next week that they would get just what was coming to them because they did not make every man who was running for office and expected the good people to support them come right out in the open and declare where they stood upon a wide open town, Sunday desecration, open theatres on the Sabbath and bootlegging and whiskey selling. He said that there was whispered around that certain men stood for a wide open town and if that was the case he would help his dead level best in this meeting to defeat him if it were his own brother.

A street service attended by hundreds at the corner of Jones Drug store listened for near half an hour as the evangelist preached to them and urged them to quit sin and surrender to Jesus, several held up their hands for prayer at the street service. Mr. Curry was at this service with his little baby organ and several musicians assisted in the services.

Great crowds all over Ada, attended the women's prayer meetings held in the homes yesterday and much interest was reported. A service at Jones Drug store at 2:30 in the afternoon was held for men.

Crowds followed the Pastor, Bro. Brooks, and the workers to the church and filled it and Mr. Law spoke on neglect and told where neglect would ruin. He declared that he was not in favor of woman's suffrage for many reasons, among them because the Bible was against it and because it made a woman neglect her home and children, and that when a woman was in her home surrounded by her children she was God's greatest flower in the garden of earth but when she attempted to usurp a man's place that she was a parody on the creation of God.

Neglect ruins the home, the church the soul. Man does not have to commit some great crime to be lost, just continue to neglect to surrender to Jesus and he will die and spend eternity in Hell. Six professed conversions at the altar. The meetings are growing in power and interest.

Not a dull moment will the audience at the DeSota see this evening. Three fine exhibits of the moving picture art. "The Loan Shark," is a splendid drama. "When Mandy Comes to Town," is a comedy in which the Thanhouser kid stars. "Let Us Give Thanks," is the third. Coming soon: "The Cry of the Children."

Fight to Save Murderer's Life.

Boston, Mass., May 23.—Counsel for Bertram G. Spencer, who was convicted of the murder of Miss Martha E. Blackstone at Springfield two years ago, appeared before the full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court here today to make a final appeal to same the condemned man from the electric chair. Spencer's lawyers, in support of their plea for a new trial, contend that evidence of the prisoner's insanity, produced by competent alienists, was disregarded by the trial jury.

Miss Blackstone's murder, while she was sitting at the table of friends whose home Spencer had entered to burglarize, and Spencer's subsequent arrest in April, 1910, culminated a series of breaks and robberies which had most of the city of Springfield agog with fear for a long time. After his arrest Spencer confessed to killing Miss Blackstone and also admitted his guilt of a score or more of burglaries. For nearly a year after his arrest he was confined in an insane asylum for observation. At the end of that period the experts declared him to be sane and he was tried and convicted of the murder.

The Lighthouse Keeper

Every third month a broad-shouldered, squarely-built man promenaded along the quays of the little fishing village on the Island of Pelworm. He was dressed in a black Prince Albert coat, white vest and stovepipe hat when he walked along the quays, but when he disappeared he took up his vocation of attending the lighthouse at Bishop's rock.

Why he had entered this branch of the government service I have never been able to find out. Now, at the age of forty-nine, he was filled with a horror of the sea, and the Prince Albert coat, which he wore during his week off, he put on as a protest against his work. Nothing gave him more pleasure than to be taken for a drummer. Ziegler was his name.

"The sea is as smooth as a polished floor," he said to me one day when we were sitting together on the shore looking westward to where the lighthouse was dimly visible against the sky, "but the sea is treacherous.

"Around Bishop's rock there are undertows, currents and eddies which nobody knows. Fortunately I have only one more winter to spend there, though it would be just like my luck if the old tower should blow down this winter in a storm from northwest."

He voiced the general opinion of the islanders. The former lighthouse had been swept away by the waves, and, although the new one had been standing for several years, every one knew that a fog-horn situated sixty feet above the rock had been carried away by the foaming waves during a stormy night.

Ziegler trembled and stood up.

"Thank the Lord, I have only one more winter to spend out there," he said.

"And then?" I queried.

"Then I am to be transferred to the North Foreland lighthouse and will be able to live ashore with my wife and boy. By the way, I wanted to speak to you about Leopold. He will soon finish school, and what are we to do with him then? Come along home with me and have a chat with my wife and the boy."

Frau Ziegler was a red-cheeked, buxom matron, whom no one would suspect of morbid ideas, but she, nevertheless, shared her husband's horror of the sea.

"It seems a miracle that it has not blown down," she said, "for it looks to me like a challenge to God."

Then we talked about the boy and his prospects.

"I hope to meet you next year," I said when I left. "I shall call on you in your new home, Ziegler."

"If the lighthouse does not topple over this winter," he replied.

The lighthouse did not topple over that winter, but Ziegler was not transferred to North Foreland Light. Two years passed before I returned. But one day in spring I once more visited the island, and my first walk took me through the little cemetery. A new tablet in the wall caught my eye. I read the inscription. It said that Ziegler had died the year before on Christmas night. Of his death the inscription gave no information.

I walked slowly toward the little fishing village and involuntarily I turned my steps toward the signal house on the cliff. I was so filled with thoughts of Ziegler that I was not at all surprised to find his wife there, staring toward the lighthouse as of old.

"I had heard nothing about it," I said as I shook her hand.

Then she told me how her husband disappeared.

On Christmas eve the light was to have been lit at four o'clock, but the minutes passed and at half past the Bishop's rock was still dark. On the island people realized that something had happened and the cutter was made clear.

Of the three men in the lighthouse only two were found. They said that Ziegler had taken the day watch while the other slept. He was to call them a little before four, but when they woke up it was dark and Ziegler was not about.

When they lit the light they saw that he had made an entry in the journal at 3:40 that a schooner was in sight. They looked everywhere, finally descending the spiral stairway. The lower door was open. From this a narrow iron ladder led down to the little landing.

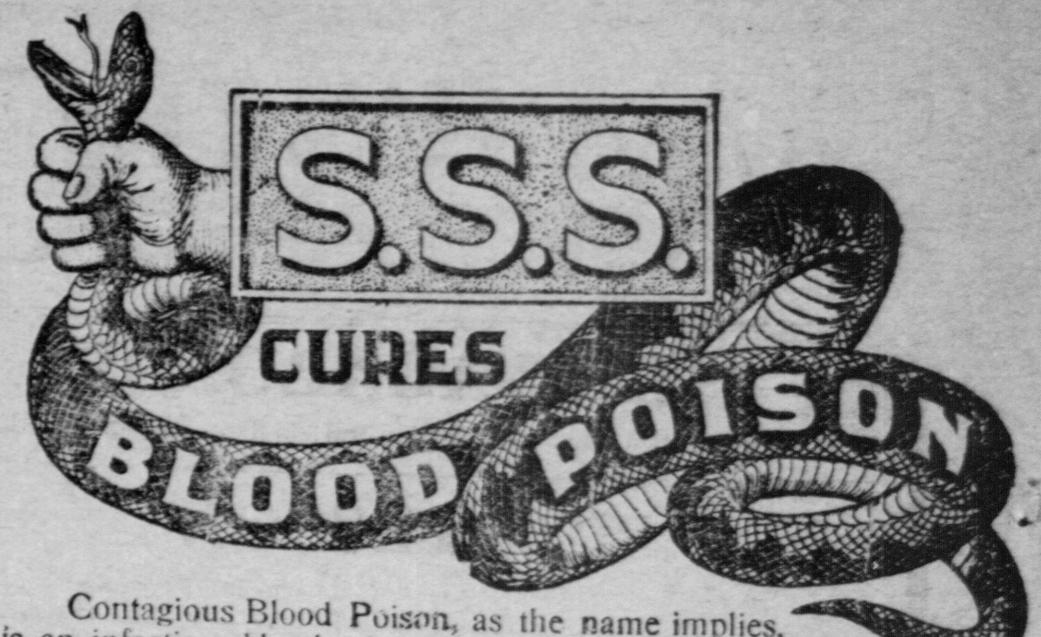

There was only one explanation. Ziegler must have gone out on the iron ladder, then stumbled and fallen into the sea.

This is what Frau Ziegler told me and I wondered why she should want to go on living here.

She shaded her eyes with her hand and stared across the sea.

"There is the cutter from the Light-house," she said. "Come down to the harbor with me and shake hands with Leopold. He is third man on the Bishop now."

"You are surprised," she went on as she looked at me. "Do you remember that the last entry that Frederick made was about a schooner? That schooner went ashore on the rocks at half past five that Christmas eve. One man lost his life, the rest were saved. That man was drowned because my husband had not lit the light in time and that is why I gave my son instead. If the Bishop's light goes down this coming winter it is only a life for a life."

Contagious Blood Poison, as the name implies, is an infectious blood taint which may be communicated from one person to another. Its virus is of a most insidious nature, multiplying from an insignificant germ in the blood until it becomes a thorough systemic poison. So powerful and dangerous is this terrible blood plague that no time should be lost in trying to drive it from the system. It should not be temporized with, but should be killed as one would a deadly serpent on the pathway. The first manifestation of Contagious Blood Poison is usually a tiny sore or pimple, but it rapidly spreads, and in a short time the entire body shows its presence in the blood. The mouth and throat ulcerate, glands in the groin swell, the hair begins to come out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, and frequently running sores and ulcers break out on the flesh.

A condition of such serious nature requires proper treatment. Not only must the disease be driven out, but the system which has been weakened by the powerful poison must be built up, before health can be restored. The question of most importance therefore is—what medicine has proven by actual results its superiority as a blood purifier? We claim this distinction for S. S. S. because of its successful record for more than forty years.

S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison by purifying the blood. It goes into the circulation and removes the last trace of the infectious virus, acts with fine tonic effect on the stomach, bowels, kidneys, and other portions of the system, and thus makes a perfect as well as a permanent cure. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, each of which has a specific action on the system. Not a particle of mineral or other harmful substance enters into its composition. S. S. S. is perfectly safe for any one, and instead of upsetting the stomach, as mineral medicines often do, it tones up this important member, and makes digestion easy. Thousands have cured themselves of Contagious Blood Poison by the use of S. S. S., and if you will write and request it we will send you, without charge, our Home Treatment Book which will give you all necessary information for crushing out the life of this serpent-like poison and curing yourself at home. We will also give you free any medical advice you may wish. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.
